Architectural firms have unique IT needs

Vast changes have occurred in the Architectural industry over the years, especially with the changes in technology used to support this environment. From the old days of drafting tables to expensive SUN SPARC Stations and CAD/CAM software to Microsoft and Linux based workstations running AutoCAD, things have changed.

COVERSE's IT staff have been there over the years supporting a wide variety of engineering environments both large and small, complex and not so complex, utilizing an array of varying technologies and software applications that both automate the design process while increasing engineering productivity and accuracy.

In recent years there have been major changes and a shift towards the creation of smaller boutique-type Architectural firms, where two or three man shops are performing the work that normally would have only been found in larger more formal Architectural firm settings.

CORVERSE specializes in the support of smaller Architectural firms and has solutions and services tailored for these unique business environments.

EXPERIENCE THE DIFFERENCE

COVERSE's IT staff have worked in the Architectural market for years and we understand the uniqueness of your business and what it requires to run a successful Architectural firm in today's competitive environment.

We are a business services firm first and believe in taking the time to thoroughly understand who you are and what you do before we make recommendations. Your success is our number one priority!
